On this page:

- Use of NDIA copyright material
- Use of logos and third party material
- Linking to and use of the NDIS data website
- Disclaimer

Copyright in the information contained on this website – including text, graphics, logos, icons, images, video and audio clips, designs, interfaces and layout of the website – is owned and protected by the National Disability Insurance Agency.

Use of NDIA copyright material

The material on this website, with the exception of logos, trade marks, third party material and other content as specified is licensed under Creative Commons CC BY licence, version 4.0.

With the exception of logos, trade marks, third party material and other content as specified, you may download, display, print and reproduce the written material on this website, even commercially, provided you acknowledge the National Disability Insurance Agency as the owner of all intellectual property rights in the reproduced material by using '© National Disability Insurance Scheme Agency 2013'.

You must also obtain the National Disability Insurance Agency's prior written permission if you intend to use a link to the National Disability Insurance Scheme website for commercial purposes (see further under the heading "Linking to and Use of the NDIS website" below)

Any Creative Commons material on the website is subject to the CC BY version 4.0 licence conditions available on the Creative Commons site , as is the full legal code for this material.

The National Disability Insurance Agency expects that you will only use the information on this website to benefit people with disability.

Use of logos and third party material

You may not use, download, print, copy, display, broadcast, reproduce, publish, re-transmit or distribute any logos, trade marks, third party material or other specified material from this website in whole or in part without prior written approval from the National Disability Insurance Agency.

The National Disability Insurance Agency may withhold or grant this approval, or grant the approval on conditions which must be complied with.

Alternatives to the NDIS logo can be found on the Trademark and use of logo page .

Wherever a third party holds copyright in material presented on this website, the copyright remains with that party. Their permission may be required to use the material.

The National Disability Insurance Agency has made all reasonable effort to:

- Clearly label material where the copyright is owned by a third party, and
- Ensure that the copyright owner has consented to this material being presented on this website.

Linking to and use of the NDIS data website

You may not link to this website to sell a product or service or to increase traffic to your website for any commercial purposes including but not limited to advertising without the National Disability Insurance Agency's prior written permission. Any permission to link to this website is provided at the National Disability Insurance Agency's discretion.

Disclaimer

The National Disability Insurance Agency accepts no responsibility for the accuracy or completeness of any material contained on this website. Further, the National Disability Insurance Agency disclaims all liability to any person in respect of anything, and of the consequences of anything, done or omitted to be done by any such person in reliance, whether wholly or partly, upon any information presented on this site.

Material on this site is made available on the understanding that the National Disability Insurance Agency is not providing professional advice. Before relying on any of the material on this site, users should obtain appropriate professional advice.

Views and recommendations of third parties, which may also be included on this site, do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Disability Insurance Agency, or indicate a commitment to a particular course of action.

Links to other internet sites are for your convenience. These links do not constitute endorsement of material at those sites, or any associated organisation, product or service.